

NAAWS Committee Policy 102 - Third Party Licensing For Use, Copy or Partial Reproduction of Publications

PURPOSE

To facilitate adoption and use of its standards publications and derivative works, the NAAWS Committee permits third party (excludes the sponsor associations) use, copy or partial reproduction of its copyrighted materials.

NOTICE

Reproduction of the North American Architectural Woodwork Standards (NAAWS) in its entirety is not permitted.

POLICY

The NAAWS Committee, at its sole discretion, may grant permission (in writing, delivered by the NAAWS Committee Secretary) for third party use, copy or partial reproduction of (without alteration) specific part(s) of its copyrighted materials, and:

NAAWS Committee permission IS NOT REQUIRED for:

- Individual and/or company use, copy, or partial reproduction in communication with staff, business associates and/or clients provided such is shared in its full page context, including the complete header and footer as may be applicable.

NAAWS Committee permission IS REQUIRED for:

- Third party use, copy or partial reproduction of (without alteration) specific part(s) of the copyrighted materials when used in non-NAAWS Committee publications, such as:
 - Published reference manual or books
 - Company brochures, websites and/or promotional materials
 - Educational materials and/or class handouts

Permission may be requested in accordance with and by execution of NAAWS Form # 102 (Request for Third Party Licensing) available on the NAAWS Committee Website at: www.naaws-committee.com

Third Party requests shall be submitted in English, in a digital (pdf) format on a fully executed request form as referenced above and delivered to the NAAWS Committee Secretary in accordance with the instructions that may also be found on the NAAWS Committee website referenced above.

Requests will be placed on the NAAWS Committee's future meeting agenda and acted on during their normal course of business as time may allow. The NAAWS Committee is comprised of volunteers and the frequency of their meetings is dependent on current standards activities and their availability to meet.
